Empathy Map

Phase 1 | Working persona hypothesis

Persona

Working persona: a traveler organizing a short multi-day trip who wants a coherent starting plan and expects to adjust it. This persona is a design hypothesis, not a named or interviewed participant.

Empathy map

| Says | Thinks |
|---|---|
| I want a plan that fits my dates and budget. | Will these activities suit my pace and interests? |
| Can I change just one day? | Are the estimated costs and details reliable? |

| Does | Feels |
|---|---|
| Compares destinations and activities; enters preferences; saves useful plans; revisits trip details. | May feel time pressure or uncertainty while coordinating many details. |

Needs and opportunities

- An itinerary organized by day with readable activity details.
- Trip fields that make personal constraints explicit.
- A clear way to save and revise the plan.
- Transparent language that suggestions and costs require verification.

Evidence boundary

The map translates the product workflow into a persona hypothesis. It must not be presented as a real interview transcript, a measured user finding, or validated market research.

Prepared from the current project source and configuration. Product assumptions and proposed work are labeled; no user research, test result, or deployment result is implied unless explicitly stated.